WHAT'S NEW AT KEJIMKUJIK NATIONAL PARK AND NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

National Indigenous Peoples Day, Sunday, June 21 - Mark this special day by exploring the significance of Kejimkujik to the Mi'kmaq as a cultural landscape. Visit (virtually!) one of our protected cultural (restricted-access) areas through the lens of a cultural interpreter, learning about the site's designation as a national historic site and why conservation is so critical here and in the Kespukwitk area of Southwestern Nova Scotia. Our Facebook page will be highlighting this and other information and resources all day! Join us: Facebook/Kejimkujik

Due to the seriousness of the COVID-19 crisis, the Government of Canada invites Canadians to celebrate this year's National Indigenous Peoples Day at home. You can learn more about the unique heritage, diverse cultures and outstanding contributions of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples by reading a digital copy of one of the books from the #IndigenousReads reading list or by exploring a virtual exhibit at your favourite museum. Limited camping services resume at Kejimkujik starting Friday, June 26 - Backcountry camping will resume on June 26 for those with existing bookings. Initially, camping will be available only to visitors with existing reservations. Parks Canada will gradually begin to accept new online reservations over the coming weeks. Visitors should check the Parks Canada website regularly for updates and information on services available and reservation windows. Visitors are encouraged to visit the Parks Canada website, plan ahead and be well-prepared for their visit.
